

Second OPEN LETTER to Dr. Caitlin Newhouse, Medical Director, Vaccine-Preventable Diseases & Immunization Program, Tennessee Department of Health

October 28, 2024

Dear Dr. Newhouse:

In my first OPEN LETTER, I asked you to defend your recommendation to healthcare providers to “co-administer vaccines for eligible and interested patients, including RSV, COVID-19, and influenza,” to targeted groups, babies as young as six months old, and pregnant women. In your reply of October 23, you avoided providing the requested information and simply sent me links to entities the public no longer trusts – the CDC and HHS. Here’s a small fraction of what you were requested to report:

- There are no completed Phase 3 clinical safety trials for the triple co-administration of RSV, COVID-19, and influenza vaccines, or with other immunizations.
- VAERS has received reports of more than 37,000 deaths and 71,000 permanent disabilities following receipt of a COVID-19 shot. The underreporting factor is estimated to be 40.
- Flu vaccines suffer from low effectiveness, completely wane in 90 days, increase risk of non-flu acute respiratory illness for 14 days, and cause injuries that include but are not limited to Bell’s palsy, Guillain-Barré syndrome, syncope, and death.
- RSV vaccines and RSV monoclonal antibody injections are new to market, have concerning reports of risks, and no long-term safety data is available on any of them.
- MedWatch has received more than 25 reports of life-threatening reactions and more than 10 infant deaths following receipt of the RSV “immunization” with Beyfortus/nirsevimab.
- Two separate federal laws shield vaccine makers and doctors from liability for injury and death caused by COVID-19 and flu vaccines, and as of yet, RSV products are not shielded. This creates a legal nightmare unlikely to result in any compensation to co-administration victims.

Your refusal to state the above facts demonstrates that you do not honor the human right to informed consent. As an active member of AIM, the Association of Immunization Managers, you have pledged your allegiance to the uptake of vaccine products. AIM has a corporate alliance with Pfizer, Moderna, GSK, Sanofi, Merck, CSL Seqirus, AstraZeneca, Novavax, Bavarian Nordic, and more.

In 2021, the General Assembly fired Dr. Michelle Fiscus, who held the position you now hold, for marketing COVID shots to minors. You continue to work with Dr. Fiscus, since she is now AIM’S Chief Medical Officer who “leads AIM’s CDC-funded project to improve COVID-19 vaccination rates in children under 5 years.”

By sending promotional information to healthcare providers on the co-administration of COVID-19, flu, and RSV products for people of targeted ages, including babies and pregnant women, you are violating the will of the members of the General Assembly and the people they represent.

I am calling for your resignation and for the hiring of a qualified practitioner who is not a member of AIM and who respects our God-given right to free choice and to fully informed consent.

Sincerely,
Bernadette Pajer
